For example, we may need access to health records for the purposes of processing claims, or details of any court or HMRC judgments for the purposes of preventing, detecting and investigating fraud. Please see below for a more detailed list of personal information we collect.

4. How do we use your personal information?

We mainly use your personal information to arrange an insurance policy and to provide you with the right services based on your situation. So, if you have a problem, we make sure the right network of providers and specialists are in place and we can also update you quickly on the progress and cost of your claim and keep you safe from fraud. However, there are a number of other reasons why we use your personal information; please see below for a more detailed list of how we use your personal information.

We may process your personal information for a number of different purposes and these are set out in more detail below. Under data protection laws we need a reason to use and process your personal information and this is called a legal ground. We have set out below the main reasons why we process your personal information and the applicable circumstances when we will do so. When the personal information we process about you is classed as sensitive personal information (now known as 'Special Categories') (such as details about your health, sexual orientation or criminal offences) we must have an additional legal ground for such processing, or where appropriate, we apply a specific exemption for insurance purposes.

- Processing is necessary in order for us to arrange your insurance policy and services, such as assessing your application and setting you up as a policyholder, administering and managing your insurance policy, providing all related services, providing a quote, handling and paying claims and communicating with you. In these circumstances, if you do not provide such information, we may be unable to arrange insurance for you or process your claim.
- Where we have a legal or regulatory obligation to use such personal information, for example, when our regulator, the Financial Conduct Authority (FCA) and our data protection regulator, the Information Commissioner's Office (ICO) wish us to maintain certain records of any dealings with you.
- Where we need to use your personal information to establish, exercise or defend our legal rights, for example when we are faced with any legal claims or where we want to pursue any legal claims ourselves.
- Where we need to use your personal information for reasons of substantial public interest, such as investigating fraudulent claims and carrying out fraud, credit and anti-money laundering checks.
- Where we have a specific legal exemption to process sensitive personal data for insurance purposes. This exemption applies where we need to process your information as an essential part of the insurance cover, for example health data.
- Where you have provided your consent to our use of your personal information. We will usually only ask for your consent in relation to processing your sensitive personal information (such as health data) or when providing marketing information to you (including information about other products and services). This will be made clear when you provide your personal information. If we ask for your consent we will explain why it is necessary. Without your consent in some circumstances, we may not be able to arrange insurance for you or handle claims or you may not be able to benefit from some of our services. Where you provide sensitive personal information about a third party we will ask you to confirm that the third party has provided his or her consent for you to act on their behalf.

- Where we have appropriate legitimate business needs to use your personal information such as maintaining our business records, developing and improving our products and services, all whilst ensuring that such business need does not interfere with your rights and freedoms and does not cause you any harm.
- Where we need to use your sensitive personal information such as health data because it is necessary for your vital interests, this being a life or death matter.

You will find details of the legal grounds we rely on for each use of your personal information below.

Note 1 - How does Sentinel evaluate your ability to pay for your insurance policy by instalments?

The insurance company(ies) we recommend to you may use scoring methods to assess your application, to verify your identity and determine finance charges. Searches and other information which is provided to us and/or the credit reference agencies about you and those with whom you are linked financially, may be used by us/insurance companies if you, or other members of your household, apply for other facilities including insurance applications and claims. This personal information may also be used for debt tracing and the prevention of money laundering as well as the management of your account.

Note 2 - How does Sentinel use your information to prevent, detect and investigate fraud?

When you take out a motor insurance policy, the Insurer will add your policy details to the Motor Insurance Database ("MID"), run by the Motor Insurers' Information Centre ("MIIC"). MID data may be used by the Driver and Vehicle Licensing Agency ("DVLA") and the Driver and Vehicle Licensing Northern Ireland for the purpose of electronic vehicle licensing and by the police for the purposes of establishing whether a driver's use of a vehicle is likely to be covered by a motor insurance policy and for preventing and detecting crime. If you are involved in an accident, whether in the UK or abroad, other UK insurers, the Motor Insurers' Bureau and MIIC may search the MID to obtain relevant policy information.

Persons pursuing a claim in respect of a road traffic accident (including citizens of other EU countries) may be entitled to access relevant information held about you on the MID. You can find out more about this from the Motor Insurance Bureau.

To help keep premiums low many insurers do participate in a number of industry initiatives to prevent and detect fraud. To help prevent crime they may at any time: approach the DVLA to check all or any relevant driving licence details of anyone named on the policy; share information about you with other organisations and public bodies including the police; share information about you and any other named persons on the policy with other insurers; pass the details you have supplied to recognised centralised insurance industry applications, policy and claims checking systems (for example, the Motor Insurance Anti-Fraud and Theft Register, Claims and Underwriting Exchange (CUE), CI FAS, No Claims Discount (NCD) database and all DVLA databases) where those details will be checked and updated; load your details and any information or documents you provide us to the Insurance Fraud Register (please note that this may affect future applications for insurance products) and verify with fraud prevention agencies and databases including publicly available data (for example on County Court Judgments, bankruptcy information and electoral roll data) any details you have provided us with. If false or inaccurate information is provided and if fraud is suspected, details will be passed to fraud prevention agencies to prevent fraud and money laundering and we will periodically search records held by fraud prevention and credit reference agencies to: help make decisions about credit services for you and your financial associates; help make decisions on insurance policies and claims for you and your financial associates; trace people who owe money, recover debt, prevent fraud and to manage your insurance policies; check your identity to prevent money laundering; carry out credit searches, electoral roll searches and further fraud searches.

Note 3 - How does Sentinel use your information for Management Information purposes?

We use your personal information to help us understand our business and monitor our performance, for example, to help improve how we provide advice.

We also look to see where there might be trends in geographical areas for a high or even low tendency to claim to ensure we offer the best advice or even a different type of service.

Note 4 - How does Sentinel use your information for analytical purposes and to improve our products and services?

We may use your personal information for research and statistical analysis about the products and services we provide.

By analysing the information you provide we can tailor and improve our services to better suit our customer's needs. Please note we will only ever market to you if you provide your explicit consent.

Where we make a transfer of your personal information outside of the EEA we will take the required steps to ensure that your personal information is protected. Such steps may include placing the party we are transferring personal information to under contractual obligations to protect it to adequate standards. Occasionally there may also be some circumstances where we are required to transfer your personal information outside of the EEA and we shall rely on the basis of processing it for being necessary for the performance of your contract.

6. How long do we keep records for?

In most cases, we only keep your information for as long as the regulations say we have to. This is usually between three and ten years after our relationship with you ends but it will vary depending on what data we hold, why we hold it and what we're obliged to do by the regulator or the law.

We will only keep your personal information for as long as reasonably necessary to fulfil the relevant purposes set out in this Privacy Notice and in order to comply with our legal and regulatory obligations. The time period we retain your personal information for will differ depending on the nature of the personal information and what we do with it. However, you have a right not to be subject to some automated decision-making and where automated decision-making is used in the assessment of your application or fraud prevention, you can contact us to request that any declined decision made by an insurer is reconsidered. If you want to opt out of automatic decision-making, let us know, although in some circumstances it may mean we can't offer you a quote or arrange insurance as some automated decisions are necessary to provide your insurance policy.
